

Stone Soup Leadership Institute's
Story of the Week: Evon Peter
Week of June 26- July 1

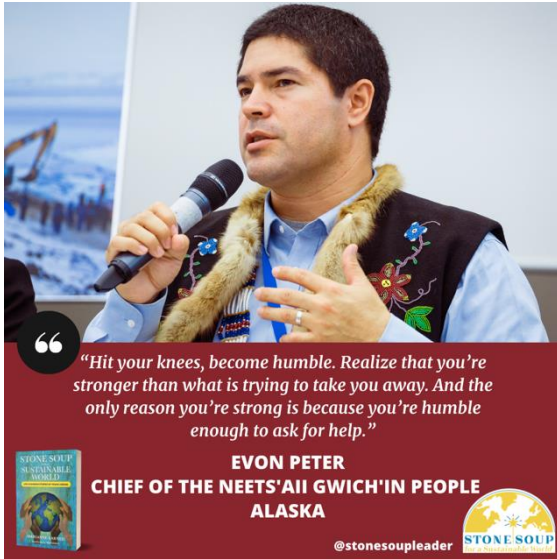

Sunday: Story: Evon Peter

<https://sustainabilityisfun.net/wp-content/uploads/2021/07/story-evon-peter.pdf>

@evonpeter

READ this story about Evon Peter, and about his passion for preserving the culture, language, and traditions of his people—as well as his concern for their health, and the health of the earth.

Monday: Evon Quote –

“I want to help revitalize my language—the Gwich'in language. We're down to less than 800 speakers worldwide. Now is the moment for us to work with our elders to document the language as best we can, and create a curriculum, and lesson plans.”

@evonpeter

Tuesday: Evon Peter

@evonpeter

WATCH Evon Peter talk about how his indigenous community measures success - by the attainment of wisdom, knowledge and skills. “Your wealth is defined by how much you give; not by how much you take.”

@evonpeter

<https://youtu.be/ybmSHeg6SDU>

Wednesday: Honor Roll

<https://www.nativemovement.org/>

Native Movement is a collective of around 15 organizers. We work on a range of projects that focus on youth leadership development, sustainability, protection of sacred sites, and social, political, economic, and environmental justice,”

@evonpeter

Thursday: The Institute’s program indigenous youth: Nane Alejandre video
 “The leadership that’s in these young people is amazing. They just need that caring person that will guide them through that process. They’re ready to go! We must change society to give them that opportunity so they can change it for their children—and for the next generations.”

<https://youtu.be/gB0CSvKoch0>

@santa\_cruz\_barrios\_unidos

★ Fridays for Educators ★

THE STONE SOUP CLIMATE EDUCATION CURRICULUM

STONE SOUP IN A SUSTAINABLE WORLD
500 CHANGING HABITS OF TODAY AND TOMORROW
 MARIANNE HARNER

Lesson Plan
 for the Story of the Week!

Evon Peter
 An Indigenous Leader

stonesoupleader STONE SOUP for a Sustainable World

Friday: Lesson Plan: Evon Peter
<https://sustainabilityisfun.net/wp-content/uploads/2021/07/story-evon-peter.pdf>
 @evonpeter

TEACHERS Use this FREE Lesson Plan with activities to help your students learn about indigenous cultural values—as well as the social and political issues that have been challenging for Native Americans.

PRESS

The New York Times

Biden Administration Bans Drilling Around Native American Cultural Site

STONE SOUP Leadership Institute

Saturday: Press: Secretary Haviland’s declaration for no oil drilling on Native Lands
 @nytimes

A victory for Indigenous homelands “Interior Secretary Deb Haaland announced that her agency would withdraw public lands within a 10-mile radius of Chaco Canyon and the area around it...from access to new oil and gas leasing for 20 years.”

“Chaco Canyon...holds deep meaning for the Indigenous peoples whose ancestors have called this place home since time immemorial...”

<https://www.nytimes.com/2023/06/02/climate/chaco-canyon-biden-protection.html>

